AN ACTION PLAN FOR A RADICAL CHRISTMAS

BASED ON THE BOOK, RADICAL, BY DAVID PLATT

FOR INDIVIDUALS & FAMILIES

- Pray for the land of Jesus' birth.

“Pray for the peace of Jerusalem,” says Psalm 122. Sadly, that call to prayer is just as needed today as it was three thousand years ago when David issued it. The land where the Prince of Peace first appeared knows little peace today.

So at this Christmas season, every time you hear Israel mentioned on the news or in the Christmas story, pray for peace in the nation of Israel and the Palestinian territories. Pray for justice for all the inhabitants of the Holy Land. Pray especially that many more in that land will come to know the Messiah who was born as a baby in Bethlehem.

- Put Jesus before gift giving.

Is your family's Christmas day celebration like many other people's—centered around a frenzy of gift opening, the wrapping paper flying everywhere? Try something different this year. Before you open your presents, take time to focus on the Gift that God gave us all, as told in God's Word.

Here are some ideas that other families have used.

- Read the Christmas narratives (Matthew 1:18—2:23 and Luke 1:5—2:40) aloud in the family group and discuss why God sent his Son.
- Using the Bible story as a “script,” act out the scenes of the Christmas drama, complete with impromptu costumes and a baby doll in a “manger.”
- Use the figures from a Nativity scene to narrate the story for young and old. Sing a favorite Christmas carol to conclude.
- Read Scriptures that talk about the meaning of the incarnation and discuss what it means for us (John 1:1-14; Philippians 2:5-11; Hebrews 2:5-18).

- Reduce your Christmas costs and give the extra away.

Did you know that the average American spends about $750 on Christmas each year? Did you know that in some countries the average per capita income for an entire year is less than $750?

Consider watching the documentary, What Would Jesus Buy and then discuss with your family how you can spend less this holiday season. Will you buy fewer gifts or less expensive gifts? Make your own gifts? Spend less on decorations and food? Cancel the annual ski trip? After you make your choice, give the money you save to a trusted ministry that serves the poor.

- Bring Christmas cheer to the poor in your community.

One of the top reasons that people give for not breaking out of their routine to help the needy is that they don't have the time. But almost everybody has vacation time scheduled at Christmas. Use some of yours to leave the comfort of home and go where you can do some good.

What's your idea? Will you take warm coats and a hot meal to the homeless downtown? Ring a bell for the Salvation Army's Christmas Kettle Charity? Dress up as Santa to give out presents at a rescue mission? Deliver gifts to the children of incarcerated parents? Bring some Christmas cheer to patients spending the holiday on a hospital ward?

- Invite an unsaved friend to attend church with you.

I hope you're already planning to go to a church service with your loved ones this Christmas. But do more than that. Invite a non-Christian individual or family to come with you, especially if you have already been developing a relationship with them. Make it easy for your guests by offering to pick them up and drop them off.

After the service, have a gift ready to give your guests, such as a Christmas ornament depicting the manger. Take the occasion to explain the gift of salvation that God gave to us in his Son.
